The last 19 AP Pre-Season No. 1 teams have won by an average of 33.11 in their opening game of the season.

Florida's 62-3 win over Charleston Southern marked the third time this decade the poll leader has scored over 60 points—8th time over all since 1950, when the first Pre-Season Poll was released.

The 59 point victory easily surpassed the Gators' previous mark by 10 points, recorded in 1994; when UF handled New Mexico State 70-21 defeat—one of two times the top team reached 70 or more points to open the season.

That season the Gator finished 7th in the final AP Poll. In other seasons when Florida was picked No.1 shows a 1999 win over Louisiana Tech, 41-7 (which equaled the mark 1962 Ohio State defeated North Carolina) and 49-14 to Marshall in 2001; in addition to the previously mentioned 1994 contest.

The All-Time highest opening-game margin came 1969 when defending 1968 National Champion Ohio State trampled TCU, 62-0; while Florida State in 1995 demolished Duke, 70-26, the year after—in 1995—Florida recorded the first 70-point game.

Over the last 19 years of teams selected Pre-Season No. 1 only twice was crowned National Champion in the final poll: 1993 Florida State and 2004 USC, opened by winning scores of 42-0 and 24-13, respectively.

Going the other way over the same time frame (1991-2009)....three teams picked No.1 in the pre-season poll fell completely out of the Top 10 in the final poll: 1997 Penn State, finished 16th; 1999 Florida and a year ago, SEC rival Georgia was the 13th rated team in the final poll.

Overall Pre-Season No. 1 teams have compiled a 52-7-1 mark; with the last setback by such a team was in 1990 Miami of Florida by a TD against BYU, 28-21. The lone deadlock came in 1976 when Nebraska and LSU each scored 6 points. (This was 20 years before the tie-breaker system was introduced.)

Florida mentor, beginning his ninth season as a head coach as seen all opener with a triumph—five with the Gators who now have won their last 20 opening games.

I don't know about all of yall, but I see a future in the works—of the most successful SEC coaches and teams to start the season with wins.
